

Approved Products Certified Overseas

How will these changes make it quicker and easier to build?

Products that have been certified overseas and recognised by MBIE will be deemed-to-comply with Building Code requirements.

Approved Products Certified Overseas

Examples could include:

WaterMark certified taps used throughout the home are part of a group of overseas certified products recognised by the CE of MBIE.

Deemed to comply

A Building Consent Authority must accept the taps as compliant with the Building Code provided they are used as intended and are accompanied by the required technical information.

New Zealanders can have confidence in these products

- Before an overseas certified product is recognised, robust criteria set in regulations must be met.
- Before a product can be sold in New Zealand, the supplier must provide a building product information requirement disclosure.
- Before a product is specified in a design, designers and specifiers will consider whether it is suitable for the intended use.
- MBIE will monitor and report on the initiatives annually and can revoke or amend recognitions if required.
