

A General provisions

---

General provisions for interpretation: classifies buildings into seven categories, provides definitions and importance levels for fire.

General provisions apply when interpreting the Building Code.

In this section

---

A1

BUILDING CODE

A1 Classified uses

---

Housing, communal residential, communal non-residential, commercial, industrial, outbuildings and ancillary buildings.

\(https://www.building.govt.nz/building-code-compliance/a-general-provisions/a1-classified-uses/\)

A2

BUILDING CODE

A2 Interpretation

---

The Building Code provides a list of defined words for interpretation.

\(https://www.building.govt.nz/building-code-compliance/a-general-provisions/a2-interpretation/\)

A3

BUILDING CODE

A3 Building importance levels

---

Sets levels to describe risk and structure factors for the purposes of clauses C1 – C6 Protection from fire.

\(https://www.building.govt.nz/building-code-compliance/a-general-provisions/a3-building-importance-levels/\)

