

Formal complaints

Last updated: 21 March 2016

If you are unable to resolve your problem by other means, you could consider applying to us for a determination or making a formal complaint.

Determinations \(https://www.building.govt.nz/resolving-problems/resolution-options/determinations/\) explains what you can apply about and how to apply.

You might be able to complain to us about:

- a building consent authority (<https://www.building.govt.nz/resolving-problems/resolution-options/formal-complaints/complain-about-a-building-consent-authority/>)
- a building contractor (<https://www.building.govt.nz/resolving-problems/resolution-options/formal-complaints/complain-about-a-building-contractor/>)
- a licensed building practitioner (<https://www.building.govt.nz/resolving-problems/resolution-options/formal-complaints/complain-about-a-building-practitioner/>)
- a person doing or supervising restricted building work without a licence (<https://www.building.govt.nz/resolving-problems/resolution-options/formal-complaints/complain-about-rbw-done-without-a-licence/>)
- a building practitioner with other qualifications that enable them to do or supervise restricted building work (<https://www.building.govt.nz/resolving-problems/resolution-options/formal-complaints/complain-about-a-non-lbp-permitted-to-do-rbw/>)

Other resolution options

If your building practitioner is not licensed or connected to any trade or professional body you will have to look at options other than making a complaint (for example, pursuing the matter through your contract, the Disputes Tribunal or the courts).

Resolution options \(https://www.building.govt.nz/resolving-problems/resolution-options/\) includes dispute resolution, activating your consumer rights, contracts, Disputes Tribunal and the courts.

Contact us \(https://www.building.govt.nz/contact-us-old/\) if you are unsure about what to do next.
